Native American Sculpture: Origins Unknown

Mr. Gary Williamson has lived on his property in Siloam Springs, Arkansas for 35 years. Recently he discovered this beautiful piece on his property.

He brought it to the Talbot Library and Museum for us to review. Mr. Williamson is curious to know if anyone has any information on who may have made it and where it may have come from.

The initials on the piece are "CD".

If you have any information on this piece, please contact the Talbot Library and they can put you in touch with Mr. Williamson.

You may also comment here. We'd love your thoughts about the piece!

"Imagine standing in a room in a large museum..... What if these objects could speak? What would they tell you about themselves? How have they been used? Where did they come from? How did they get to this museum? Whom do they belong to?"
